FURIOUS parents have branded Essex County Council's secondary school selection process a "complete farce" after more than 20 children from the same Harlow primary school failed to secure a place at any of their four choices.

According to mums and dads of pupils attending Henry Moore Primary in Kiln Lane, more than half of the Year 6 youngsters could not get a place at their first or second choice secondary schools, while more than 20 didn't receive an offer of any of their four choices.

The parents say their children, the majority whom have been allocated a place at Mark Hall Specialist Sports College in First Avenue instead, are "absolutely devastated" by the outcome.

"All the kids were crying together in the playground the day after we found out," said Vanessa Lowman, of Davenport. Her son Josh had been hoping to attend Burnt Mill Academy.

"It just didn't occur to anyone that they wouldn't get at least one of their choices and we are all just devastated. I cannot understand why Henry Moore pupils seem to have been targeted like this."

Andie Norris, of Doulton Close, said telling her daughter Catherine she hadn't been offered any of her chosen secondary schools was the hardest thing she'd ever done.

"I was crying and she just sobbed," she said.
"For two years running I have been to all the open days and read all the brochures to make sure we chose the right secondary school for our daughter and yet it has all been a total waste of time and effort.

'The reason we didn't put Mark Hall down is ecause we do not feel it can provide the level of education we want for our daughter. The whole system is a complete farce."

Clare Edwards, of Davenport, said she would be home-schooling her daughter Chloe Ioannou from September if their appeal to secure a place at Passmores was unsuccessful.

"The most frustrating thing is that when I called to check the admissions criteria for Passmores I was told priority is given to chil-dren from broken homes because they are considered more vulnerable.

"How is it fair that because my daughter

The mum-of-two, who is the only Harlow resident of the five selected to take part in the relay on July 7, said she was "honoured" to be given the opportunity to represent her home town.

"I couldn't believe it when I found out I'd been selected, I was absolutely speechless, said Jeamme, of Churchgate Street. "It's such an incredible honour and the fact I'm going to be carrying the torch through Harlow where I've lived and worked for most of my life makes it extra special."

A stalwart of the local arts scene, Jeanne began her studies at the Brenda Taylor School of Dance before going on to gain a degree in performing arts at Middlesex University.

A YOUNG dancer has struck gold after being selected to perform in the closing ceremony of the London Olympics. Emma Cuthbert (19), of Moorfields, Harlow, had to dance her way through two auditions before securing a place for the televised ceremony featuring over 4,000 performers.

Emma, who has been dancing for six years and is currently studying urban dance at the University of East London, said: "I have never done anything like this before and am really excited about it.

"To be part of the Olympics performing alongside so many other people will be a once-in-a-lifetime experience. I can't wait."

Although Emma has yet to be told anything about the two-and-a-half hour production which is expected to be watched by millions worldwide, she will have to attend 13 rehearsals before the big day on August 12.

"It will take a lot of commitment and hard work but be completely worthwhile," she added. "My dream is to travel the world performing in events similar to this so it is certainly a good start to my CV!'

HERE WE GROW: Pupils from Milwards and Burnt Mill schools prepare to plant PACT seeds ahead of World Autism Day (photo: HAR0812944)

"Growing fun, fresh and tasty food while raising the profile of autism is a great project," said PACT spokesperson Rowen Saunders.

"We are encouraging local children to grow the seeds both at home and at school as we feel that by bringing together children across the town to participate in such an excellent cause brings new strengths to the community." All money raised from the campaign will be used to provide activities for local children with autism and their siblings, and put on awareness, education and group support events for parents.

Rowen added: "We'd like to thank Sainsbury's for their support and Pitney Bowes for their assistance with the promotional packaging for the seeds. "A special thanks must also go to Year Nine citizenship students from Burnt Mill Academy and Milwards Primary School pupils who have done a wonderful job packaging up the seeds, decorating boxes to sell them from and making posters. Their hard work is really appreciated."

OAP devastated by battery theft

A PENSIONER was left virtually housebound after the theft of the battery from her mobility scooter for the second time in as many weeks.

The callous crooks have targeted 74-year-old Marion Hayes on no fewer than three separate occasions, with the latest incident occurring less than one week after her last battery was replaced.

The batteries are popular with thieves because of their high lead content.

Furious daughter Mandy Moore said her mum, who suffers from rheumatoid arthritis, is now at her wit's end.
"She is absolutely devastated,"

Mandy told the Star. "She was shaking when she told me that the battery had been stolen again.
"That scooter is her lifeline and yet less than a week after getting it back she is unable to use it and is stuck at home again.

All three thefts have occurred at night when the scooter is chained up outside her mother's home in the Netteswell area of Harlow. Although the first theft happened over a year ago, Mandy believes the last two were carried out by the same people.

"They must have been keeping an eye on the house to know so quickly that the scooter had been repaired," she said.

"Not only is mum left with the stress of having to fork out another hundred pounds until she is reimbursed through insurance, she is also terrified at the thought of these awful people playing around on her front porch in the middle of the night.

"Unfortunately, she hasn't got a ramp or the space to be able to keep her scooter indoors, although we are trying to work something out as the situation is getting ridiculous."

Mandy said that her mother isn't the only person to have their scooter battery stolen. "She knows of a few people that it has happened to now. We've been told there is lead in the battery and that's why they are being targeted.

"These people aren't just taking a battery and causing a lot of distress. they're also taking away vulnerable people's independence. It is absolutely disgusting."

A police spokesperson confirmed the force was investigating the incident, adding: "To target a mobility scooter is an obvious attack on a more vulnerable member of society, making this crime particularly cal-

Mrs C. J. Mordecai said she enjoyed a brief trip down memory lane when she spotted her parents among the employees enjoying their day trip.

"My mother is the last lady in the line on the right and my father is the very last man in the line," she writes. "My stepfather is also standing behind my mum as she married my Dad's best friend. Ted Oliver, after Dad passed away. Ted had been her companion in sad times.

"I cannot place where the picture was taken but I know it was one of the many day trips they enjoyed courtesy of Key Glass. All three were good friends and it was lovely to see their happy faces.'

According to Mrs Mordecai, her family also moved to Harlow when a new employment opportunity came up at the Key Glass factory. "We moved to Harlow in 1956 when I was 13 because my dad got a job at Key Glass and, of course, a nice new house at Tilbury Mead," she said.

Drama group's sculptures project plea

DO you have any stories or pictures regarding Harlow's impressive collection of public sculptures?

The request comes from inclusive drama group Razed Roof, which is hoping to focus on the history of the sculpture town for their next production,

After recently receiving a generous grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund for the project, group members are now busy researching and preparing for the piece and want any residents who can help to get in touch. Razed Roof coach Mandy

Jacobs explained: "People may have recollections of when the sculptures first came to Harlow, particular events held around or near the statues or even just remember playing or climbing on the statues as kids.

"We would love to hear from as many people as possible and particularly would be interested in any old pictures anyone has of the sculptures.

"The delightful shot published in Nostalgia a couple of weeks ago of Ian Beckett larking about on Henry Moore's Family Group is a fine example of what we are looking for.'

Race for Life organisers in the pink after launch

RAIN failed to dampen the spirits of those attending the official launch event for this year's Cancer Research Race for Life in Harlow.

Pink-clad volunteers were out in force at the Water Gardens with members of Jazzercise Harlow and local fundraising groups to recruit as many women as possible for the fight against cancer. Surrounded by pink balloons, the group spent the day talking with shoppers about the fundraiser, which takes place in the Town Park on Sunday, May 20. They also sold Mother's Day bouquets to kick start their fundraising efforts.

"Even though it was such a wet day it was absolutely brilliant." said event manager Lucy Hynes. 'Everyone was really responsive to what we were doing and extremely keen to support us.

"We also raised £1,200 from flower sales."

It is hoped more than 2,800 mums, daughters, grandmothers and friends of all shapes, sizes and ability will sign up for the Starsupported event and help raise more than £190,000 towards cancer research.

Entry costs £14.99 for adults and £10 for under-16s, with the choice of either a 5km or 10km route to run, jog or walk.

Lucy added: "After such a successful launch I just really hope as many people do as they said they would and sign up for the country's biggest fight against cancer."

College investigates exam 'irregularities'

AN internal investigation into suspected marking irregularities is being carried out at Harlow College.

According to a source at the Velizy Avenue campus, a review of Key Skills examination papers from the 2010-11 school year has been launched after concerns were raised they may have been tampered with.

Depending on the results of the investigation, which the college has described as being in its "very early stages", the qualifications, which include assessments in English, communication and numeracy skills, could be amended or revoked.

However, deputy principal Nick nal investigation was under way at the college, stressed it was "extremely unlikely" any students would have their qualifications withdrawn.

MP wins his fight to keep Big Ben free

PLANS to introduce a £15 charge for visiting Big Ben have been shelved following a campaign led by Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

The House of Commons Commission suggested charging visitors to the London landmark from July, a move Mr Halfon described as "fundamentally wrong".

"It is so wrong to institute charges for people to come and see our heritage and, in essence, impose double taxation as we pay for Parliament anyway," he said. He said he was worried the move would turn Parliament into "a theme park".

This week he told the Star: 'This should be a people's parliament, not a parliament for the rich.

"I'm delighted at the decision and I am glad the commission has agreed that Big Ben is an essential part of our parliament.

Most residents were able to return to their homes after the building was declared safe at around 11pm, although the occupants of the ground floor flat damaged in the collision will have to wait until rearis work is carried out.

Tongue-in-cheek letter not intended to offend

SIR, I have lived in Harlow since 1952 both as a tenant and a homeowner. I am 70 years old and disabled.

For a long time I have written what I hoped were logical letters to councillors and local newspapers arguing the case for raising council income as an addition to simply cutting services and selling off assets Reaction came there none.

Recently I have been agitated by the current wave of changes which, in my view, are an attack on the valuable public facilities which have been enjoyed by the town since its early days. In frustration I decided to write a tongue-in-cheek letter (Star, February 23) which put the case for my views but set in the context of apparent support for the council. A great deal of thought went into its construction but I did not foresee the justifiable upset it has caused.

It was a letter which could be read in two opposite ways. I was looking for those who think our council wonderful to support one view while those who are unhappy with our council would see the other meaning. Sadly. the only reaction I had to the second view was some very upset neighbours who are tenants and, no doubt, other similar folk around the town who felt that I had personally insulted them.

I had not foreseen this reaction and sincerely my point so strongly. I look forward to making a public apology to all those folk who feel I have insulted them; it was my own lack of thought and I sincerely regret all ill-feeling.

But I must balance this by saying that I am pleased that, despite their anger, many folk appear to have seen the point I was trying to make. Following publication I had an immediate response from a Conservative councillor who, in a long telephone call, told me how pleased he and his colleagues were by my letter which had shown such appreciation for their actions. Now there has been a big response to the opposite view.

For clarity I have edited my letter [printed right – Editor] to show how I tried to put both sides of each point made so that current policy, shown italicised, can be tested against the opposing – and my own – views which are (bracketed).

I have senarated the three elements I chose as a vehicle for my letter but there are several others which I did not use. I would be grateful if it could be published as part of my defence.

Ian Kennett Felmongers, Harlow

I am delighted that, at long last, we have a council which reflects the beliefs of most homeowners. (The main political parties have long disregarded the temptation to raise more money by increasing our rates) and, although it would make little difference to us they would make little difference to us, they have proudly competed in keeping the rates as low as possible.

By opposing planning permission for a by opposing planning permission for a large development of building in Gilden Way, they have protected our hedgerows and environment and, more important to the surface of the protection of the surface meagerows and environment and, more importantly, the value of our homes. At the same time, (by offering garage sites with planning permission) they are taking the sensible decision to allow developers to erect social housing without a problem.

Also, (by increasing rents), the council has cleverly used Government guidance to ensure that people who lack either the guts or the will to buy their own the guts of the war to pay closer to the market price for their lack of ambition. At last things in Harlow are now being properly managed and (we have the council we deserve).

Single and childless so no hope of council flat

SIR, It is a disgrace that the third generation of the first people to live in Harlow are forced to move out of the town. My grandparents moved here in the 1950s and I am lucky enough to still have my grandmother living here. But because I am not a priority as I am single and don't have councillor that I will never get a flat or bedist in this town so I might as well give up the hope of ever having a council property. This is an outrage and very negative. Why should I be forced to move out of the town I was born in and where my family live because the council cannot provide a place for me to live?

There was a promise in the '50s that the next generation would get housed. This was next generation would get indused. This may true because my Dad got a council flat back in the 1960s but now it is my turn as one of the third generation of Harlow people and I am told it will never happen.

I think the council should keep their promises, stop persecuting people for not being blessed with wealth and prioritise their council lists a little better. And before vou ask. I cannot go into private rented accommodation because I don't have a

Many other people have got council bedists and flats; I deserve one, too. And yes, I've got the hump.

NHS reforms will take us back to the 1980s

SIR, So Harlow MP Robert Halfon is mystified by Labour's opposition to the Government's proposals to make sweeping changes to the way the NHS and social care are managed (Star, March 15).

I, too, am mystified that he is not listening to the thousands of people who work in both important services and can see that the proposals will destroy the principles of the NHS and cut back on care.

There is also massive support for the protest from the public in general, including many within the coalition.

Something else which I detest from the ruling parties is the constant harping back at Labour. Well, I can't resist the chance to do some harping myself.

I have a DVD of a protest which took place at Harlow market in the 1980s in the days when we had a market. This was when Mrs Thatcher was busy closing down the majority of Harlow's factories as well as most of Britain's industry and destroying millions of jobs.

The DVD was in support of the health service and the responses we got from the public showed how much they cared for the NHS, despite the Tory cutbacks. People spoke of long waits for appointments and operations, some of operations cancelled with only hour's notice, others of wards closing, nurses having to cover more than one ward and many other worrying matters. If the Government's Health and Social Care Bill becomes law, our NHS will return to the bad old days of the 1980s. The only good thing about this situation is that it will finish the coalition.

Tenants saddled with new mountain of debt

SIR, For once I agree with Robert Halfon. It was an absolute disgrace that after paying off all its debt, the last Labour government took £13m out of the housing revenue account of Harlow Council's hardworking

However, what he fails to mention is the current Government has saddled Harlow Council with £210m of new debt which will now cost the same tenants at least £16m a year to repay for years and years.

Talk about give with one hand and take away with the other. Both governments' policies are seriously flawed.

Mr Halfon was also rather glib about new house building. When asked at a Harlow Council cabinet meeting, the Conservative councillor responsible replied that there were no immediate plans to start council house building.

Development could be good for wildlife

SIR, I read the proposed Sumners West development could lead to a loss of wildlife habitat.

I consider farmers' fields to be wildlife deserts maintained by fertilisers and selective weedkillers. Last summer I took a stroll round Hawkenbury Field and saw 10 different species of butterflies, kingfishers and water voles in the Musket Brook and all within a few yards of the busy Katherines Way.

If urban development is the Harlow way, I could see a net gain for wildlife, especially as gardens become established.

Town tops UK's list for business growth

THE number of new businesses in Harlow is growing at a faster rate than anywhere else in the UK.

A BBC-commissioned report compiled by Experian shows the town experienced the strongest business growth rate in Britain between July 2010 and February 2012.

In that time the number of businesses grew from 3,782 to 4,260 - equivalent to an average yearly increase of 6.2 per cent – while the number of new start-ups shot up by 23.5 per cent.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said the

"Our town has always been a place of aspiration and dynamism, but Harlow is now rapidly becoming a proper business hub, bringing jobs and growth back to the area.

"The reasons that Harlow is open for business are clear. We've got a Tory-run council that has frozen council tax for three years and supports enterprise and a Conservative-led Government that has cut business taxes and chosen Harlow as an Enterprise Zone.

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson added: "There are two main reasons why small businesses thrive in

"Firstly, we have a great location in between London and Cambridge with an airport just up the road and easy links to the motorway network.

"Secondly, Harlow Council takes a pro-business approach. We have a good regeneration team who deal with businesses on a one-to-one basis as a single point of contact.

"Whether it's setting up in a specialist start-up space at Harlow Enterprise Hub or coming to one of our councilrun workshops for specialist advice, being business friendly is something that goes right through the council."

Labour prospective Parliamentary candidate for Harlow Suzy Stride also welcomed the report's findings but said more needed to be done to protect local businesses from Government cutbacks.

"It is great to see small businesses thriving and obviously the Labour Party in Harlow is passionate about seeing

"We are are also keen to see full regeneration of the town centre, which will remain difficult in a time of extensive cuts by this Tory-led Government.'

Premature twins are first transfers to new neo-natal care unit

MEDICAL staff at Princess Alexandra Hospital's newly-extended neonatal intensive care unit have been caring for the first babies to be transferred to the facility following the completion of a £1.1m refurbishment project.

The expanded unit now includes almost 300 square metres of additional space providing extra room for life-saving equipment and offering parents greater comfort and privacy. The building work began in November and was completed on schedule.

The first babies transferred to the unit were twins Emily and Rosie Stacey, pictured above, who were born on February 28 at just 32 weeks.

Mum Emma said: "Emily was 1.82kg at birth and Rosie just 1.53kg. It was very daunting to begin with but the staff on the unit have been so supportive and they are all truly fantastic.

"My elder daughter, Chloe, is loving being a big sister to the twins and we are all looking forward to March 27 when we are hoping to bring the girls home so we can all be together as a family with my partner

This is my chance to help hospice that gave mum such amazing care

Georgina Rowley has already signed up for this year's event and this time she has talked her fiancé into joining her.

Georgina, who lives in Harlow, has taken part in the St Clare Hospice fundraiser for the past three years following the death of her mother, Tracy.

She first became aware of the work of St Clare when Tracy fell ill for a third time with cancer.

"She had battled with the illness since I was 11 but this time it was beating her," said Georgina. "It had gone to her brain and at the age of 17 I knew I wasn't going to have my mum and best friend, around for much longer.'

The hospice provided care for Tracy on several occasions up until her death in April 2009.

"It gave me the opportunity to have a break but most importantly gave her the care she needed while keeping her comfortable and in as little discomfort as possible," said Georgina. "The care provided was amazing and I still get emotional when I think about the love that was shown from the staff at the hospice.'

In previous years Georgina has taken part in Midnight Walk with friends but this year she will be accompanied by fiancé Greg. "It's not often I persuade him to wear a pink tutu and bunny ears after

A budget 'fo w-earne

BUDGET measures announced by Chancellor George Osborne yesterday (Wednesday) will help stimulate the economy and are good news for the hardworking and vulnerable, according to Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

Mr Osborne handed the low-paid a tax break, but smokers and drivers are set to be hit in the pocket.

He announced plans to raise the personal tax allowance to £9,205 by April 2013, meaning many workers will see up to £220 more in their annual pay-packets from next year.

But he also increased duty on cigarettes by 37p a pack and ignored motorists' calls for a cut in a pack and graphored movinsis cars for a cut in fuel duty to mitigate spiralling pump prices, which will rise by 3.02p a litre in August.

The town's 14,000 pensioners will receive an extra £5.30 a week in their state pensions from next month, but those paying income tax could find themselves worse off in real terms after Mr Osborne unveiled plans to freeze age-related allowances

Local businesses will benefit from an immediate 2p reduction in corporation tax with another 2p set to be shaved off in 2014, while the East of England region is set to receive around £16m for infrastructure improvements.

"This is a budget for lower earners and hard-working people, for jobs, and for the most vulnerable," Mr Halfon told the Star. "Some 49,400 people in Harlow will be able to keep £220 more a year of their wages through tax cuts.

Our home is a zoo

A FAMILY-run zoo in Devon is enjoying its newfound fame as the unlikely inspiration for a new Hollywood movie.

new Hollywood movie.

We Bought A Zoo, which stars actors Matt Damon and Scarlett Johansson, tells the story of Ben Mee and his family, who purchased the run-down Dartmoor Zoological Park in 2006 for £1.1m.

Despite having no experience of keeping animals, Mr Mee, his wife Katherine and their children Milo and Ella moved into the rundown mansion in the park grounds and set to work repairing and renovating the site.

They were joined by Mr Mee's mother and brother and quickly learned how to cope with faulty plumbing, rising damp, wet rot and a lack of heating.

The family also found themselves the proud owners of five Siberian tigers, three African lions, nine wolves, three brown bears, two pumas, a lynx, four Asian shortclawed otters, two flamingos, a flock of owls, a Brazilian tapir, vervet monkeys, several emus, a herd of deer, a llama, various reptiles, boa constrictors and even a tarantula!

After completing a major refurbishment project, the family re-opened the zoo for business in July 2007.

Mr Mee wrote a book about his experiences which proved to be a bestseller in America and led to 20th Century Fox buying the film rights.

The movie was released in UK cinemas last week - and Mr Mee is now hoping its success at the box office will help attract more visitors to his

By Ian Hudson, General Manager Harlow & District Chamber of Commerce

LOCAL firms can benefit from a packed schedule of business events being staged by Harlow & District Chamber of Commerce next month.

First up is our monthly meeting which takes place at St Clare Hospice on April 17 and gives all our members the chance to catch up and look forward to the new financial year.

On April 26 we'll be putting on three business briefings looking at time management, negotiation skills and using Twitter for business. These sessions will run from 5-7pm at Harlow College and places can be reserved online at www.harlowchamber.co.uk.

The following day we're running a corporate social responsibility workshop in conjunction with Kier Harlow, where some of the town's larger employers are being invited to meet people from all sectors to look at how they can give something back to the town.

Meanwhile, despite the tough economic climate, many of our chamber members continue to flourish.

Harlowsave Credit Union, our local financial co-operative, is marking the 'Move Your Money' campaign this month by offering free membership for

The organisation has recently opened its membership to voluntary sector organisations, associations, co-operatives, social enterprises and small businesses, offers members the opportunity to take out small loans and save and borrow at affordable rates.

For more information on the Move your Money campaign, see www.uk.coop/moveyourmoney or call Harlowsave on (01279) 451234.

Chloride Industries, part of the Emerson Network Power group based in Montgolfier, France, went production live last Wednesday, as part of a multinational implementation of Harlow firm Configure One's configuration and quotation software.

The key objective was to reduce the lead time to configure and quote their Industrial UPS systems. Based on trials, the time to create a quotation will be reduced to one hour from a present two days using their old processes.

Configure One Europe is based in the Harlow Enterprise Hub and has been in business since January 2007, supporting implementations across the whole of Europe.

Courses are working to help jobless

A HARLOW-based specialist training provider has teamed up with JobCentre Plus to launch a new initiative helping jobless residents find a route back into employment.

Specialist Trade Courses is now running free two-week professional courses in tiling, painting and decorating, plant and logistics, warehousing, team leadership and customer service from its base in The Fairway, Bush Fair.

Starting fortnightly throughout 2012, the hands-on sessions are suitable for complete beginners and include expert tuition from experienced tradesmen as well as business start-up workshops for those considering selfemployment.

As the scheme is being backed by JobCentre Plus, those enrolling will not see their Jobseeker's Allowance affected. Company director Joseph Buels told the Star: "The courses are very much hands-on practical courses where people can get a great feel for working in the put to good use and we have already seen people complete the course and go on to find work." Unemployed Stephen Read (29) said his two-week tiling course had given him the confidence to start planning a career as a self-employed tradesman.

"Anyone can lay a tile but when you are shown the professional way you quickly understand that this is a skill that you need to learn properly if you are serious about working and earning income in the trade," he said. "Specialist Trade Course were very helpful in helping me to access the funding from the JobCentre and it's a real eyeopener to see what can be achieved in just two weeks." Specialist Trade Courses also deliver diploma and NVQ-led qualifications to existing tradesmen and offer bespoke training courses for those who want to add to existing skill sets. One-stop philosophy helps agency to buck the trend

A NEW estate agency in Harlow has defied the economic downturn to enjoy a "remarkably successful" first six months

Despite difficult trading conditions, Mulberry Green Estates has gone from strength to strength since opening premises in Station Road, Old Harlow, last October. Sales director Mark Lacon, pictured above left with managing director Paul Cochrane, said a competitive pricing structure and customer service had helped them build up a solid client base.

"At a time when the country has been hit by a recession, we aim to make the process of moving home as hassle-free as possible," he said.

"We came up with a one stop shop philosophy wherein we offer estate agency, lettings, mortgage and protection advice, EPCs, floor plans and conveyancing in house."

Mr Cochrane added: "People thought we were crazy to set up an estate agency and mortgage advice company at this time but the first six months have surpassed all of our expectations. We are delighted at how things have gone.'

To celebrate their success the firm is offering new applicants who instruct them to sell their house or any landlords who instruct them to let property during April and May the chance to win a 32-inch LCD television.

Dance show fit for the Queen's diamond jubilee

By CHRIS MOSS

AUDIENCES are in store for a right royal knees-up this summer as one of the town's most successful dance schools prepares to stage a spectacular new show celebrating the Queen's diamond jubilee. Featuring more than 150 talented young performers, the three performances will be the most ambitious yet staged by acclaimed Potter Street-based performing arts group Makin' Steps.

Staged at Harlow Leisurezone between June 7-9, 5212 will turn the clocks back for a breathless musical journey through the past 60 years, with specially-choreographed routines taking in everything from 1950s jives to modern street dance.

The school's head tutor Scott Simpson said: "We've been rehearsing since the beginning of the year and things are coming along very nicely.

"This show will certainly be very different and it's been very exciting trying to authentically recreate the songs and dance styles of each decade. "With a huge number of dazzling period costumes, a bespoke stage and spectacular special effects this really will be a show to remember – and a fitting tribute to the Queen's diamond

Tickets for the shows are now on sale now priced at £15 (£12 for under 16s) To book, call the box office on (01279) 304937 or visit www.makin-

Moving study of attitudes towards motherhood

A POWERFUL drama exploring society's shifting attitudes towards motherhood opens at Moot Hall tonight (Thursday).

The latest offering from the Moot House Players, Charlotte Keatley's 1987 debut My Mother Said I Never Should is the world's most-performed play written by a female playwright and rightly hailed as a modern classic.

A moving study of motherdaughter relationships set against a backdrop of seismic social change, the touching drama follows the very different lives, loves and relationships of four generations of women. Peppered with surrealistic interludes, the play gives a fascinating insight into each successive generation's touching attempts to give their children a better life despite being saddled with the emotional baggage of a closely-guarded family secret passed down through the vears. MHP chairman Geoff Leeds, who will be directing alongside Bett Hewlett, said: "It's a charming, engaging and sometimes painful reflection on life.

"It's also the kind of play you can watch more than once and still see new angles, so if you saw it when we first performed it around 20 years ago you'll not regret seeing it again.

"Jenny Southwell reprises her role as Doris and is joined by Bridget McAlpine, Claire Quley and Kerry Rowland to provide an evening of fine theatre.

● My Mother Said I Never Should opens tonight (Thursday) at Moot Hall in The Stow and runs until Saturday. Performances begin at 8pm and tickets cost $8 ($6 concessions) from (01279) 639170.

Teens' gameshow is a fight to the death

THE HUNGER GAMES certificate 12A, 2h22m

DEATH is a lottery – literally – in this nail-biting survival thriller based on the first chapter of Suzanne Collins's post-apocalyptic trilogy.

Set in a dystopian future where plucky teenagers compete in a gladiatorial death match, The Hunger Games was always going to struggle to meet the dizzying expectations of the book's ardent fans.

The same fate befell the first instalments of the Harry Potter and Twilight series – modern cinema's technical wizardry simply cannot compete with the boundless invention of imagination.

North America lies in ruins and in its place stands the deeply divided autocratic nation of Panem, comprising the wealthy Capitol and 12 surrounding, poorer districts controlled by President Snow (Donald Sutherland).

Every year, one boy and one girl from each district are selected by lottery to take part in The Hunger Games, a televised contest designed by Seneca Crane (Wes Bentley).

Sixteen-year-old Katniss Everdeen (Jennifer Lawrence) volunteers to take the place of her younger sister Primrose (Willow Shields), joining baker's son Peeta Mellark (Josh Hutcherson) as the tributes from District 12. The teenagers are escorted to the Capitol by Effie Trinket (Elizabeth Banks) and alcohol-sodden mentor Haymitch Abernathy (Woody Harrelson), whose first advice is to "embrace the probability of your imminent death".

Katniss and Peeta are prepared for the tournament by stylist Cinna (Lenny Kravitz), while television coverage hosted by Caesar Flickerman (Stanley Tucci) creates an atmosphere of feverish excitement.
Eventually, the pair from District

Eventually, the pair from District 12 must face their rivals including sadistic Cato (Alexander Ludwig) and weakling Rue (Amandla Stenberg). Only one can survive. The Hunger Games is suspenseful, exhilarating and genuinely moving, galvanised by strong performances and breathlessly orchestrated action sequences.

Screenwriters Gary Ross, Collins and Billy Ray remain faithful to the source novel, including chilling scenes of adolescent protagonists slaying each other to survive and impress the viewing public. It's no wonder UK censors recommended cuts and alterations to the intense scenes of carnage to achieve a Oscar nominee Lawrence beautifully captures the steeliness and despair of a resourceful daughter, who would die for the people she loves. Hutcherson is equally compelling.

Gore is plentiful though never excessive, but parents of small children should exercise caution. Director Ross employs handheld cameras to sprint alongside competitors, giving a palpable sense of their disorientation and mounting dread as whooping rivals close in for the kill.

THE PIRATES! IN AN ADVENTURE WITH SCIENTISTS certificate U, 1h28m

BRISTOL-based Aardman Animations discover their sea legs in this salty escapade for the entire family based on the book by Gideon Defoe, who pens the screenplay.

It's the mid-19th century and Queen Victoria (voiced by Imelda Staunton) has declared war on all pirates who dare to sail around Britain's waters

The Pirate Captain (Hugh Grant) is the leader of a ragtag group of seadogs, whose enthusiasm far exceeds their ability to plunder booty. As a result, The Pirate Captain and his crew are a laughing stock, derided by rivals such as Black Bellamy (Jeremy Piven), Cutlass Liz (Salma Hayek) and Peg Leg Hastings (Lenny Henry).

To prove them wrong, The Pirate Captain sets out to capture a Bank of England treasure ship but ends up storming the wrong vessel and capturing a young Charles Darwin (David Tennant) and his primate manservant Mister Robo

The scientist leads the pirates on a merry dance that might just end with the beleaguered Captain taking home the much coveted Pirate Of The Year prize.

Benjamin sinks all of his money into the zoo, hoping to restore the facility to its former glory in time for an inspection by the notoriously pernickety Walter Ferris (John Michael Higgins).

THE DEVIL INSIDE Maria Rossi (Suzan Crowley) telephones the police to confess killing three members of her church group during her exorcism and is taken away to Centrino Mental Hospital in Rome. Film-maker Michael Schaeffer (Ionut Grama) follows Isabella as she travels to Rome, gatecrashes a seminar led by Father Robert Gallo (Claudiu Trandafir) and befriends priests Father Ben Rawlings (Simon Quarterman) and Father David Keane (Evan Helmuth), who are undertaking illegal exorcisms on unfortunate souls.

Despite the credit crunch, the British remain passionate about home ownership. Banks are also in the business of lending money, yet having burnt their fingers with wildly generous lending in the past they are keen not to make the same mistake again.

There is one particular effect of changes in the mortgage market that could affect you if you are currently buying or selling. That is the undervaluing surveyor!

When your property goes on the market, your agent s job is to secure the very highest price the market will pay. An experienced local estate agent should have a pretty accurate idea of what the market will pay (although beware those agents who suggest a very flattering figure to impress you to gain your property, which then might struggle to sell and go stale on the

Once that figure, or one close to it, has been achieved and a sale has been agreed, the buyer will invariably arrange for a formal valuation to support their mortgage application. However, these valuations are designed to be a safety net for the lender and valuers are increasingly aware of reducing risk both for their client (the bank), and themselves. They have traditionally been more concerned about the evidence of previous sales than they are about what the market will actually pay today and we are currently experiencing some surprisingly high figures being achieved. .

So buyers and sellers alike, both of whom really do want to move, should be prepared for a slight downvaluation following the mortgage valuation inspection, but not let it deter them. Unless the valuation affects the ability to borrow enough, it does not always follow that the price itself is unrealistic and need not necessarily be renegotiated between buyer and seller.

Springs arrived and the silly season as

It's a funny world at times being an estate agent, people say the silliest things. The other day, Ben was showing a lovely lady around a number of flats, the last one was enormous, so much bigger than the others she had seen that morning.

The price was a modest £10,000 or so above the others and she said, "it's so much more money, what am i getting for the extra price?" Ben was speechless, "Well" he replied, "It's twice as bia, an extra bedroom and the best part of

The same lady who said she knows Harlow well got lost in Turnford after leaving Hoddesdon in the wrong direction and blamed Ben for poor directions.... But the good news, its terrific out there, anything up to £300,000 in Harlow is flying out of the window, last week, we had just short of 100 viewings over a period of six days, an outstanding performance by our sales team, they are exhausted but so excited it really is a very busy time and Spring has arrived, daffodils everywhere, nearly as many as the number of sales we are agreeing for our town!"

She couldn't see it, Ben gave in!

Design-it-yourself city car

By Matt Kimberley

HE city car sector is getting tougher with every new launch and the established competitors have got to raise their game to compete.

Renault's Twingo has been updated for 2012 with new styling and masses of new, fashionable personalisation options.

As part of Renault's slimmed-down 2012 range, the Twingo is yours in just the one trim and engine combination: Dynamique with a 74bhp 1.2-litre petrol engine. Given that the Twingo is unashamedly biased towards nipping around town and looking good, the combination is right on the money.

As standard you have alloy wheels, cruise control, speed limiter, a bundle of airbags, the excellent in-built sliding seats for more legroom or boot space, electric windows, air conditioning, a CD player stereo with Bluetooth connectivity and remote central locking.

The real genius of the Twingo at the buying stage is that it's very easy and very cost-effective to personalise. You can change the alloy wheel style, have them painted white, black or grey, have the mirror surrounds covered in chrome-effect plastic, add a boot spoiler, stripes or creative stylised graphics.

None of these changes and upgrades costs a lot of money, so it's easy to

ENGINE TRANSMISSION PERFORMANCE ECONOMY CO² RATING 1.2-litre four-cylinder petrol producing 74bhp 5-speed manual gearbox driving the front wheels Maximum speed 105mph, 0-62mph in 12s 54.5mpg 119g/km get a completely individual Twingo without breaking the bank. There are four standard flat paint finishes including a very bright pale blue that's a fantastic base for adding stripes or smart graphics. It might not be the first choice for those with a Y chromosome, mind you.

There are also five metallic finishes, albeit including a rather iffy Cinnamon brown and a Fushia pink option. For less outgoing types there's silver, white, cream, red, blue and black across the flat and metallic ranges. Plenty of choice for the discerning urbanite.

The daring looks at the front will definitely divide opinion but I think it looks great. From the initial surprise it grew on me a lot.

For extra convenience inside there's the cost-option of full climate control and a Smoker Pack if needed. Electronic stability control is an extra as part of the Security Pack, which also includes traction and understeer control as well as rear side airbags.

control as well as rear side airbags. The standard upholstery is quite simple but stylish and appealing. The unconventional dashboard layout will inevitably split people in the same way as Marmite – the rev counter is alone behind the steering wheel while the speedometer is way off to the left. Despite the obvious lack of engine options, the 1.2-litre petrol is a very good choice for scratching around town. It works best on light accelerator pedal pressure, whatever you're doing with it. There's a sweet spot part-way into the throttle travel and once you find it, all becomes clear

The bottom line for the engine is that it' more than enough for keeping pace with the traffic in town. It's cheap to tax, too, costing £35 per year at the moment after the first year. It won't get you into central London free though.

The five-speed manual gearbox is on the stiff side for around town, but the test car was more or less brand new and it'll probably lighten up over time. The same goes for the collar on the gear stick that needs to be pulled up to engage reverse. Again it's very stiff but felt like it was loosening up by the end of the week-long test. Thanks to a low centre of gravity the Twingo stays surprisingly flat through corners, and despite the small wheels and short wheelbase it rides well, too. Cobbled roads pose no problem and even sunken manhole covers are absorbed really convincingly considering this is such a small car. One of the best ideas in small car design is the sliding rear seat an idea.

design is the sliding rear seat, an idea the Twingo has benefitted from since its rebirth in 2007. To get the best from the rear seats they slide backwards and create huge legroom. On the other hand, one or both of the seats can be slid forward to create the kind of boot you'd only usually find in cars at least one class larger. It's simple but brilliant.

The one down-side to that rear seat arrangement is that the parcel shelf has to be attached to the tailgate only, so that it doesn't interfere with the seats. That leaves gaps that can be seen through, so your luggage isn't necessarily out of sight. Deadlocking is standard though, which adds security.

There are plenty of good city cars out there and the Twingo is one of them. The way it uses its space is very clever and all the different personalisation options mean that buyers can build the model the way they want it.

Cars like this are bought mainly with the heart and Renault has made it very easy to fall for the Twingo.

Defeat for club

HARLOW Tennis Club suffered a heavy 12-4 loss to Henham in divi-sion two of the Essex Mixed Small Clubs League.

Steve Dodd with Karen Butler lost their matches 6-4, 6-4 and 6-3, 6-2 respectively.

Paul Pattison with Nicola Barnett won two sets, so drew 6-2, 5-7 and 6-2, 1-6.

Previously, Harlow recorded a 5-3 victory over Clavering.

Harlow's two pairs of Sarah Sharrod and Kieran Wills, Karen Butler and Richard Stingemore

Sharrod and Wills then won 1.5-0.5.

Butler and Stingemore then cruised to a comfortable win in their rubber (1.5-0.5).

The third men's team won 3-1 away to Aldersbrook in their penultimate match of the winter season.

No final flourish

KART racer Matthew Hayden had a great start before he had a disappointing final when he competed in the second round of the National Super One Winter Cup. The 11-year-old, from Harlow, was leading on lap three, but was knocked off the track by a Scottish competitor and he limped home second from last.

Earlier, the Pear Tree Mead School pupil performed very well to get in pole position for the final. He finished first, third and second in the qualifying heats.

The event took place at a track in Lincolnshire.

In the second half quick hands through the backs created an overlap for Romford to score their first and only try, which was successfully con-

Tip-off for Hawks' National bid

A TEAM from the Harlow Hawks Basketball Club will enter the Junior National League for the first time next season.

The side will compete in the U-15 boys age category.

The first training session for this team will be today (Thursday) at Harlow leisurezone (8:30pm-10pm).

This could mean travelling to places like Northampton, Worthing and Southampton, Swindon, Oxford, Brentwood, Watford, London or Southend.

Up to now the junior programme has focused on providing a platform for players to come along to the sessions, with the majority playing in the Junior Central Venue League (JCVL) which Harlow has hosted since September 2007.

This is now in its 5th season for U-11, U-14 and U-17 age groups.

But for a number of the better players that are currently in school years 8 and 9 (12- to 14-years-olds), the club wants to provide them with a higher level of competition in addition to them continuing to play in the JCVL. Hawks player-coach Shab Niaz said: "This is something that we have not been able offer before, but think now is the right time for the club to progress and explore this avenue.

STEP UP: The Harlow Hawks U-15 team is set to join the National League

"Even though we have a good group of players at the club at the moment we will be looking to add some additional players to the squad, who may want to play at this level and are capable of fitting into the team."

Any players interested should contact the U-15 team secretary, Karen Pemberton, on 07795 have been selected along with six reserves.

"When you consider both Amelia and Canaan have another year in that age group their performances were even more significant," said Essex coach John Stow, based in Harlow.

"I believe if they continue to improve and stay focussed both pupils could well wear the white vest of England in 12 months time."

Also competing was Perry Rowan (15), a Burnt Mill student, who finished a solid 105th in the inter boys race (5,900m) in 21:51.

Stewards' Rosie Poole (12) was competing in her first All-England Championships.

She placed 195th in the junior girls race (3,150m) in 13.13.

He finished in 37th position out of 356 in a superb 1:26.20.

Win reignites play-off bid

>>Cont'd from back page midfielder Danny Brown as a late sub was also a welcome sight for Hawks

He has been out for two weeks with a rib injury.

As time ticked on there was a tremendous save from Wright to turn away Hammond's bicycle kick from 7 yards out on 88 minutes.

Wright bettered this in injury-time. Cowley's free-kick was heading in until the keeper's stunning tip-over

Jack (15) was put forward by the development centre manager Steve Blaney.

The voungster, who can play in right midfield or as a forward, travels up to Norwich on Mondays and trains with the Academy.

Jack scored for the Academy U-15 side when they beat Ipswich Town 5-1 in a recent match.

Blaney said: "He's a very skilful player and is good with both feet.

"He can pop up with goals and is very good technically."

Two other youngsters, who attend the centre at Passmores, have also gained experience with Norwich Academy teams.

Meanwhile, Arron Thomas (13), of Watersmeet in Harlow, has turned out for the Norwich Academy U-14

Ladies show East promise

Harlow Ladies 2, East London 3

Essex Women's Hockey League, premier division

A FOURTH consecutive loss was a blow to Harlow Ladies, but the side can take huge heart from a second-half fightback as they lost to the leaders by the odd goal in five.

Harlow started well and after four minutes, Emma Tweddle won a penalty corner, but good defending prevented the hosts from taking an early lead.

Harlow's dominance continued and Alex Figg, back for the weekend from university, showed her versatility at centre forward.

Her skilful play and reverse stick shot was unlucky not to find the net on 14 minutes.

The Londoners then found their rhythm as the Harlow midfield and defence struggled to control two of the League's top scorers, Chantaruck and Shears.

At the other end, Rebecca Dolan and Charlotte Byers were both denied by the East London keeper.

On 24 minutes, Chantaruck weaved through the Harlow defence effortlessly and slid the ball home to open the scoring.

The visitors went 2-0 up six minutes later when a free hit was dribbled forward from the halfway line, before a player hit a powerful shot into the net.

After the break, Harlow were unlucky not to convert from several penalty corners as East London's Lithuania Under-18 goalie showed her class to keep the ball out.

A quick clearance from the London defence led to a third goal on 42 minutes as Chantaruck netted.

It was 3-1 five minutes later as Byers fed Carolyn Welsford and she clinically dispatched the ball into the right corner.

With five minutes remaining it was 2-3 as Welsford tucked inside a post after a neat onetwo with Tweddle from the top of the D.

But an equaliser proved out of reach. Harlow remain third.

Brentwood 2. Harlow 4

East Men's Hockey League, div four south east

A CLINICAL Harlow secured the points from their encounter away to mid-table Brentwood.

The side are sixth and four points adrift of Saffron Walden II, occupying the third and final promotion spot in division four south east, so still need snookers if they are to somehow beat the odds and go up.

Both teams have two games to play.

The visitors were without veteran defender Ali Castle, but welcomed back Jordan Tovell in midfield.

Harlow started well and went in front on six minutes after being awarded a penalty corner. Adam Ottley hit a fierce strike into the Ottley grabbed a second on 15 minutes. Brentwood could not deal with the direct running and pace of Craig Cholerton in midfield and, although his effort was saved, Ottley was on hand to force in the rebound.

Brentwood halved the deficit towards the end of the half. Harlow keeper Adam Johnson made a good initial save, but the ball fell kindly to a forward who rifled a shot into the

Romford 2, Harlow Tn 1

THE departure of experienced midfielder Leon Lalite rocked Harlow Town as their play-off hopes were left in a mess by Saturday's loss at Romford.

Striker Bertie Brayley played on his return to Hawks but the side face an uphill stuggle to finish in the top five now.

An 82nd-minute winner did for Danny Chapman's men as they suf-fered back-to-back defeats in Ryman division one north.

The club were seven points outside the play-off spots following this loss.

After the departures of midfielder

Tom Bruno and striker Emmanuel Osei a few days earlier, Harlow were hit by the sudden departure of central midfielder Lalite.

Known as Belly (as his surname used to be Bell), Lalite had played a key role since returning to the Hawks in January 2011 from Blue Square Bet South side Thurrock.

He has quit due to work commit-

Always a favourite with Chapman, his move is a blow with Harlow light on central midfield options.

The patched-up Hawks were also missing their most important player, injured skipper Danny Brown, while striker Peirs Wixon was also absent.

Brayley, one of two new signings, played a key role last season and has returned to the club after a spell at Tooting & Mitcham this term.

Utility player Daniel
Day has also joined from Spurs and was a sub.

He was linked with a loan switch to Harlow last season, but that did not work out in the end.

Day has now been released by Spurs and signed permanently. He can play anywhere along the left side and provides cover for Brown.

Short of options, Chapman was also forced to recall striker Hamed Bangura, who had been due to play for Essex Senior League side Stansted today. He is on a dual registration.

Romford had the edge in the first half and Kurt Smith's shot struck a post before rebounding to safety on the half-hour mark.

Harlow were a goal down at the

The hosts scored on the stroke of half-time. Centre-half Jack Barry rose highest to head home an accurate Hussein Isa right-wing corner. Harlow improved in the second period and equalised when Mark Taylor scored from the penalty spot on 82 minutes after the referee spotted a handball.

But any hopes of a recovery were blown two minutes later when Romford went back in front.

After a howler from Hawks keeper Bertrand Bossu, Smith was on hand to hook the ball home fro a tight angle. This result took Harlow's nightmare run to eight points from a possible 24. The pressure is growing on Chapman and unless there is a dramatic turn around in the club's fortunes, they will be staying in division one north for another season.

British Champs joy for Bauer

ATHLETE Dave Bauer claimed his first ever national title in the discus when he competed at the British Masters National Indoor Championships at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre at Picketts Lock, North London. Harlow Athletic Club men's team captain Bauer claimed a gold medal and two bronze medals in a wonderful weekend for the field athlete.

Bauer, above, competed in the men's 45 age group and threw the discus a massive 37.99 metres to clinch first place on Saturday.

With just one practice throw and four throws in total, Bauer said he was delighted to hit top form so early into the new season.

"We only got one warm up throw and you only get 4 throws in total in the competition. It's the first time I have won a national title!

'I'm capable of far more, but in March and wet conditions I will take that."

The following day he competed in the hammer event and threw an impressive 32.77m to claim a bronze medal. "That was a decent distance. I was pleased with that," he said.

Bauer then threw the heavy hammer (35 pound weight) some 10.99m for another clear third place and a bronze

He said: "I was very pleased with this as it was just three centimetres below my all time best! I'm capable of more in this event too.

Also competing at the British Masters was former Harlow Athletic Club coach Dawn Jones.

Taking part in the women's 40 years class in the high jump, Dawn leapt 1.45m for a season's best and a silver medal on Saturday.

will still be unable to host its own Southern League meet-ings at its Mark Hall Sportcentre home in 2012.

This is largely due to drainage issues on the field at the London Road venue.

It heralds an unhappy milestone that HAC will certainly not be commemorating.

Not since 1993 has the club

been able to host league meetings – and these were at its old home in Hammarskjold

With 2013 being the earliest year that Harlow could hold home meetings - if the problems are resolved - it means the club will not have held competitive events for 20

The new Southern League season begins in May and Harlow will 'host' their meetings at various venues including Ware and Picketts Lock.

London calling GB ace Osagie

GREAT HOPE:

Andrew Osagie

By ALAN SCOTT Sports Editor alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

GOLD-medal winning Paralympian Noel Thatcher is backing Harlow's Andrew Osagie to shine at this year's Olympic Games in London.

Long-distance runner Thatcher, believes the talented 800m star - who clinched a bronze medal at the World Indoor Athletics Championship in Turkey – has the talent and the character to follow in the footsteps of Olympic legends Seb Coe and Steve Ovett by winning a medal at 2012. Thatcher (46), who won his first gold medal at the Paralympics in New York back in 1984, was full of praise for Osagie.

Both are members of Harlow Athletic Thatcher, who has a town centre home in Harlow, said: "I have trained with Andy – or I usually just run behind him! It was always evident that he had this incredible talent.

"He has the mindset and he has this humility which is a rare thing these days.

Thatcher, who is partially sighted, last competed at the Paralympics in Greece in 2004.

He has represented Great Britain at six Games, from New York (1984) to Seoul (1988), Barcelona (1992) to Atlanta (1996) and Sydney (2000) to Athens.

"If I cannot compete in London, at least I can watch him [Osagie]," said Thatcher.

Thatcher, who was the first Paralympian to be inducted into the England Athletics' Hall of Fame in 2009, hopes Osagie can overcome the problems he has had with injuries over the last couple of years and secure a medal in London.

"He has been unlucky with injuries. I have watched his talent from a young age. He has shown he has the ability. I don't want to put pressure on him but he is good enough. Because of his injury he has not over-trained.

"That home factor will be a huge advantage to our athletes. To be competing in your home nation, there will be a huge

"He is running 1:45 [1 minute and 45 seconds for 800m] and that is bonkers. To be running that time is huge.

"He has the mind set, the patience and the humility. It will pay off for him."

Osagie has run 1:48 this season, but two seconds faster.

Osagie's personal best is 1:45.36.

Thatcher admits he would have loved to have competed in a Paralympics on his doorstep.

"It would have been nice to have competed in London," he said.

But the long-distance runner has plenty of happy memories of his time competing on the global stage.

Athlete driven on by IAAF bronze

ANDREW Osagie believes gaining bronze will drive him on to take a silver medal or even a gold at his next major championship.

The Harlow 800m runner made national headlines when he secured a bronze medal at the IAAF World Indoor Championships in Istanbul 11

Osagie (24), said: "Bronze is one of the best medals to get for the first time because it gives you so much scope for

The Harlow Athletic Club member expects to represent Great Britain at the European Championships in Helsinki, Finland from June 27.

From there, the countdown will begin to the London Olympics in August. Bearing in mind, Sebastian Coe was 28 when he took the silver medal at the Los Angeles Olympics in 1984, Osagie must now realise he has a great chance of medalling at not only London 2012, but also Rio de Janiero in 2016. Osagie clocked an astonishing time of 1.45.36 on the outdoor track at Crystal Palace last August, so there is scope for that record-breaking run which would give him the gold medal at the Olympics. "I've got so many things to do mentally and physically in training just to make and physically in training just to make those little increment improvements that are going to get me into finals and get me Olympic medals, which is what we're aiming for," he explained.

"To get into the [World Indoor] final is a big step for me and to win a medal is almost unbelievable."

Osagie, whose career has been hindered by recurring injuries, posted a time more than three seconds shy of his personal best in Turkey, but now has an international bronze to go alongside his 2011 UK title.

He was also fourth in the final of the European Indoor Championships that year so his progress is incontrovertible. His bronze was one of nine that contributed towards Team GB's biggest ever World Indoors tally, an achievement he says has put the nation's athletes in a buoyant frame of

"We've got a record medal haul. More than we've ever won before," he said.

"There's such a positive mood and atmosphere in the group. We're really focused on representing the country really well in the summer," he told BBC Radio 5 Live.

I'll never forget Muamba horror'

LIFELONG Spurs fan and Star News Editor Chris Moss says he News Editor Chris Moss says he will never forget watching medical staff fight to save Bolton Wanderers midfielder Fabrice Muamba's life in front of him at White Hart Lane. The shocking collapse of the 23-year-old Premier League player during the FA Cup quarter-final tie between Tottenham Hotspur and Bolton and the heroic efforts of both clubs' medical teams to get his heart started again made back and front page news across the world – as has his gradual "Football and its petty rivalries suddenly didn't matter any more – the atmosphere shifted completely and everyone in the ground was just focused on willing Muamba to pull through, with fans from both sides chanting his name as if the sheer weight of noise and emotion would somehow revive him.

"I'll never forget the sight of the Spurs doctor desperately pumping his chest – it was horrifying.

Marksman Huckle gunning to try out Olympics' shooting venue

MARKSMAN James Huckle is keeping his fingers crossed that he is picked by Great Britain for the Olympic Games in London.

In April, Huckle will be one of the first sportsmen to compete at the plush facility which will be used for the shooting events at the Olympics. The 21-year-old, from Old Harlow, is relishing the prospect of being one of the first to test out the new state-of-the-art Olympics shooting facility at the Woolwich Barracks in South East London.

If he does well in this Great Britain qualification event, he will be picked for the Olympics.

The board of British Shooting will make its decision on who represents Great Britain at the Games.

Huckle, who has never competed at an Olympics Games before, secured medals at the Commonwealth Games in India in 2010 but missed out on sealing a qualification spot at the European Championships in Finland.

He was just six points adrift of the score needed to book a GB spot – and finished in 52nd place.

He remains upbeat and knows he has the ability to qualify. "There will be a test event in April. They [British Shooting] will then decide By ALAN SCOTT Sports Editor alan scott@hertsessexnews co.uk who gets that place," said Huckle. The former Mark Hall School student hopes to compete in the 10m air rifle, 50m three positions and 50m prone at the Olympics.

"[In April] I will get to see the [Olympic] venue for the first time. I have had a small tour but not used the venue [for shooting]."

Having taken up the sport just six years ago Huckle has made huge progress, but desperately hopes he can make the Olympic team.

"I started late, when I was 15. It will be a dream come true Ito compete in London]. There's a lot of hard work and preparation put in. I hope it all comes to fruition. It's a once in a lifetime opportunity."

Huckle says because the Games are being held in his home nation, it means much more to represent Great Britain. "This is never going to happen again in our lifetime." he added. "I'm still training really hard. Shooting gets a lot of negative publicity, but you need discipline and dedication.'

He's still the right Chap!

Players' support for boss as Kilapi eyes play-off final has told the Star that all the players are behind Hawks' under-pressure boss Danny Chapman as the side look to turn around their stagnating season.

Until Tuesday's superb 2-1 win over play-off rivals Redbridge, Harlow Town had dropped to eighth in the Ryman division one north table after a miserable run of results.

On the back of this three players had quit – including the surprise loss of experienced midfielder Leon years ago.
